New Zealand

Image: https://www.facebook.com/npmconstruct

Whangārei Hospital's new transit lounge is designed to free up ward space while providing patients with a comfortable waiting area. The $3.75 million facility offers an essential space for patients who are medically fit to leave the ward. It features eight chairs, six beds, and additional amenities such as showers. This transit lounge replaces an older facility in the aging Whangārei Hospital. Patients use the lounge while waiting for medication, discharge papers, or transport home.
